No PowerPoints. No Judges. No Prizes.
DemoCamp is all about exposure.

DemoCamp is an annual event for the Atlantic Canadian startups to come together and showcase their innovative technologies alongside their peers, while reaching potential new customers or investors, and the rest of the community.

Founders from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, PEI, Newfoundland and Labrador are invited to explain what their tech is, how it works, why it is helpful and more, but must do so without a PowerPoint presentation or any other type of slide deck. This makes the presentations more focused on the technology being demonstrated.

Each participant will have five minutes to present their hardware or software product to a virtual audience, and attendees will be encouraged to give feedback and ask any questions using the chat function following their presentation. A set amount of time will be available for questions from the audience.

Special thank you to

Event Schedule

5:30pm | Opening remarks from emcee, Sahil Ahuja, Volta's Sr. Strategic Projects Coordinator

5:40pm | Demonstrations begin:

KAYR for Communities, Inc. is a platform designed to help student unions create stronger, more supportive + active university communities, with a combination of gamification, social networking + analytics at the core.

Cohability is a community for housing seekers to meet and interact via a web platform.

Drastic Scholastic Thermoplastic is a plastic decontamination technology. It takes plastic waste and transforms it into a internationally recognized plastic pellet.

Stopper – Kilo Communications software uses a proprietary computer vision algorithm to detect, export and tag important scenes from single-camera sports footage, resulting in significant time savings for coaches, players and analysts.

Axtion Independence Mobility Inc. designs and produces affordable, in-home assistive devices to enable seniors and others with mobility issues to live independently and with dignity. Their first device enables fall victims to self-recover from a fall when there is no injury and aids with fall prevention in the performance of activities of daily living.

Local Buys is an app that lets local retail store owners sell and deliver the products within their area to their local audience.

Clean Valley Bio-filtration Technologies CIC will be demonstrating their nature-based waste water filtration system, Poseidon.